Additional Information

Paul J. Molinaro, M.D., J.D. is a practicing attorney and physician. He graduated from the University of Medicine & Dentistry of New Jersey – New Jersey Medical School in 1991, moved to Southern California for post graduate training at the San Bernardino County Medical Center, and began practicing urgent care medicine thereafter. He currently practices urgent care medicine several weekend days per month. He graduated from Chapman University School of Law in 2005 and currently practices law full-time. His legal experience has included the representation of many clients in the fields of medical malpractice, personal injury, real estate, contract, product liability, prescription drugs and medical devices, and general civil matters. His medical and legal experience has involved handling many cases of serious bodily injury. He has also handled a wide range of real estate matters including failures to disclose, commission disputes, breaches of contract, and debts secured by real estate.

Paul J. Molinaro, M.D., J.D. has always enjoyed helping others with serious problems, whether medical or legal. Having negotiated the settlement of many cases, he knows the value of settling legal disputes for all parties involved in the conflict. He has studied mediation at the Straus Institute for Dispute Resolution (which is part of the Caruso School of Law at Pepperdine University) and used his mediation skills to help people in conflict by offering a means of resolution without suffering the financial and emotional strains of litigation.
